"Money Manager is an effective tool in our classroom with Special Day Class students. This fully thought-out program introduces our students to the practical world of functioning economics. Money Manager provides all the necessary materials to establish an economic system within a classroom. From earned "cash" to student pouches... to a cash box for banking, to the mechanics of writing checks and paying bills... This system came complete and ready to integrate the week we received it. It even has a Daily Planner the students take as homework and notify parents of their progress.

Money Manager has eliminated 99% of our behavior problems within the third day of use. Students who behave well are paid for good behavior. Now everything we do relates to the students' sense of money and real world.

Students pay for the rental of their desk space, bathroom breaks, electricity, water and telephone. Periodically, we even have a tragedy (hospital visit or car repair) a random student must "pay" for. Students are rewarded for good manners and docked for bad manners. We have added Money Manager to our class Workability I Program and they work as if the two programs were made for each other.

Teachers love Money Manager as the rewards are immediate, discipline is simple and make sense to the students. The program comes complete and ready-to-go! Students particularly love the days when they can purchase from the "store". Our Parents love Money Manager because their child is learning math, economics, responsibility and are passing the class without parents' pestering. Most of all, we all love Money Manager for the fun atmosphere it creates in our classroom."
